

THE PEACEMAKER SEMINAR
and
YOUNG PEACEMAKER CLASSES

SATURDAY, APRIL 21, 2007

LOCUST, NC
(20 minutes east of Charlotte)

HOSTED BY:
CAROLINA PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Scripture is clear that Christians are to be known by their love (John 13:35) and peace (Romans 12:18). Sadly, however, most of us do not know how to respond to conflict biblically. When should we overlook? What does it mean to make a thorough confession? What should our relationships look like after we forgive? The Peacemaker Seminar is a five-hour training that applies systematically biblical principles to real-life situations to equip you to respond to conflicts in gracious, wise, and God glorifying ways.

In recent years, our General Assembly adopted these same biblical principles and added them to our BCO.

Carolina Presbyterian Church has the extraordinary privilege of hosting the Peacemaker Seminar presented by Peacemaker Ministries on April 21, 2007. As an added blessing, school age children will have their own Young Peacemaker classes at the same time. You and your church officers are invited to not only attend with your families but to enthusiastically promote this event in your congregations. If you would be willing to commit to encouraging your congregation to learn more about biblical peacemaking, please complete the brief response card and I will either hand-deliver it to our event coordinator, or you can mail it to her at the address listed on the card.

For more seminar details please contact Ruth Moran at tmoran1@carolina.rr.com.
